Vessels for London.—The Brankenmoor is now ready for sea, and will sail early to-morrow morning. The Autumnus and Sydney are full ships, and are expected to sail on Tuesday morning. The Emma Eugenia is expected to be a full ship on Wednesday next. All the other vessels on the berth are rapidly filling up.

The brig Tigress has hauled alongside the Garland Grove, at Moore's Wharf, into which vessel she will discharge her oil.

The cargo of the Auriga, from the Mauritius, which arrived at Hobart Town on the 26th April, consisted of 3578 bags sugar, 80 cases claret, and 10 bales gunny bags.

There are now several vessels overdue from England. The Thomas King would leave the Downs on the 23rd December, and has therefore been out one hundred and thirty-five days. The Post Office Packet, Bussorah Merchant, supposing her to sail on the 5th January, has been out 121 days. The Boadicea would sail probably about the 10th January, which will make her 116 days out. The Prince of Wales, Woodbridge, and Glentanner, (February packet) being considered fast-sailing vessels, may also now be looked for.

The Duke of Roxburgh and Iris will move up from Watson's Bay to the Stream, this day. The mail by the former, for Singapore, will not close before Tuesday evening next, at six o'clock.

There are no arrivals reported in the Port Phillip papers which came to hand yesterday, and very little appears to be doing there in shipping at all.

Colonial Shipping.—The two finest ships built in these colonies are at present in our harbour: the Tasman, built in our own port, and the Harpley, built in the Tamar, and just come round. Of the former we have already spoken, nor is she yet completed in her internal fittings sufficiently to do her justice by a further description. The Harpley, a longer, though not a larger vessel, is, we have heard, a most perfect specimen of marine architecture. We have not yet visited her, but her exterior is most creditable to the draughtsman. She sits quite beautifully on the water, and looks a clipper. Her fittings up are, we are informed, in the first style of elegance, combined with solidity, and that she is truly built throughout. She has a full cargo, and, being down in the water, of course looks better than her rival. Long, say we, may the same rivalry exist between the ports of the colony; and success attend her enterprising owner in all her voyages. She has called in here to take in invalids for England and is, we believe fitted up with every comfort for that purpose.—Hobart Town Advertiser, April 27.

LATER ENGLISH NEWS.

We have received via the Mauritius and Van Diemen's Land, English news to the 24th December, three days later than had previously come to hand. We take from the Mauritian the summary of the London Mail of the 24th, to which we refer our readers. It will be seen that the ministry propose a bold measure with regard to Ireland, by interfering in the tenure of land, and that among the minor modes of relief an extensive system of emigration is proposed. Until we have further information it will be impossible to form an opinion as to the probability of the success of the Government proposal, but extraordinary diseases often require extraordinary remedies, and the present state of Ireland will certainly excuse an interference with private property, which under ordinary circumstances would be altogether unjustifiable.

THE PROPOSED COMMITTEE ON IMMIGRATION.

We rejoice to perceive that the honorable member for Cumberland, Mr. Cowper, has given notice of his intention to move for the appointment of a Select Committee, to consider and report upon the present demand for labour in the colony, and the best means of obtaining an adequate supply of the same. The honorable gentleman to whom this important question had been confided in former sessions is now, by his position as Speaker, precluded from resuming it. Into better hands than those which are about to take it up, the task could not have fallen. Experience has proved Mr. Cowper to be well qualified for the conduct of an arduous enquiry. The zeal, the diligence, the discrimination, and the tact, which form the chief requisites for the office of chairman of a committee, have been exemplified by him on several occasions during the last four years, and may be taken as a pledge for an efficient discharge of the duty to which he is now addressing himself.

What this great question may lack on the score of novelty, it more than compensates by what may be truly called its national importance. Its direct bearings on the interests of the empire are admitted by statesmen of every party, and have been elucidated and enforced by some of the most powerful orators in either House of Parliament. Its intimate connexion with the interests of this colony is so self-evident as to amount to a truism. Population is the one thing needful to our advancement in wealth and civilization. We have a territory sufficiently wide, a soil sufficiently fruitful, and resources sufficiently varied, to afford sustenance and profitable employment to more than tenfold, aye, to more than a hundred-fold, of our present numbers. The amount of capital already embarked in the opening up of these advantages, is sufficient to occupy and to reward the industry of thousands of our fellow-subjects, now pining at home in idleness and destitution. For want of their assistance, our energies are cramped, and our success impeded. The tillage of the ground, the multiplication of flocks and herds, and in short the prosecution of all the pursuits by which capital is augmented, and the general happiness enhanced, are comparatively suspended, because our supplies of labour are unequal to the demand.

But while on this part of the question the well-informed and reflecting among us are generally agreed, on the other part of it, as to ways and means for the introduction of labour, there is a diversity, and indeed a fickleness, of opinion, which encircles the question as a whole with the most formidable difficulties. Whether immigration should be conducted at the public expense, or that of individual employers—whether at the expense of the national or of the colonial exchequer—whether, if the latter, at the expense of the land or of the general revenue—whether by prompt payment or by means of a loan—and if by loan, to which branch of the treasury the liability and the interest should be charged—these are moot points, upon which local opinion, and local prejudices, and local interests, seem to be growing more and more contentious every day. How the distractions may be allayed, and the golden mean be discovered, will form perhaps the most anxious of the enquiries which it will be the province of Mr. Cowper's Committee to institute.

One honorable member, at any rate, has made up his mind beyond all dubiety. His shrewd and penetrating intellect has alighted upon the conviction, from which neither argument nor ridicule can for a moment divert him, that "the exportation of capital for the importation of labour" is the sure way to ruin. Labour, he admits, we want and must have; but then we are to have it for nothing! In importing labour, for some dozen years past, at our own cost, we have been guilty of the wildest extravagance, of the most consummate folly, that ever human beings perpetrated. The money so expended might as well have been sunk into the caverns of the ocean.

This strange doctrine has come to be a standing laughing-stock, its mere enunciation being sure to provoke broad grins and boisterous cachinnation. Its merry-making virtues are owing partly to the ultra violence to which its venerable sire pushes it, but chiefly to the Quixotic pertinacity with which he clings to it, in season and out of season, on all fitting and on very many unfitting occasions. If he would content himself with showing that the financial policy he denounces might be advantageously substituted by some other, that it would be better, for instance, to import labour in the way recommended by the last Immigration Committee, he would pursue a course more consistent with his own dignity, and with the grave importance of the subject. But when he iterates and reiterates the unqualified dogma that the exportation of capital for the importation of labour, as it has been practised by this country, is a dead loss to the community, he flies in the face of incontestable facts.

We were glad to perceive the clear and spirited manner in which the dogma was exposed, on Wednesday last, by Mr. Murray. The honorable member tore it to pieces, and scattered it to the winds, leaving to its abettor the difficult task of gathering up its fragments and patching them together, for future use on his own part, and for future amusement and demolition on the part of others. Nor should we overlook the homely, but sensible and business-like way in which this same dogma was handled, a few days ago, in the letter of Mr. T. S. Mort.

Our official statistics are not so complete as to throw upon this subject all the light which such evidence is capable of affording; but still they are complete enough to show that "the exportation of capital for the importation of labour" has neither ruined, nor half-ruined, nor even seriously impoverished, the colony.

The practice of importing labour at the expense of the land fund commenced in the year 1832. The extent to which it has contracted our industrial operations, impaired our powers of production, and drained us of our wealth, may be gathered from a few significant facts.

In the year 1836 the amount of coin in the colony was £420,700. The lavish exportation of our capital for the importation of labour, during the ensuing nine years, had had the extraordinary effect of leaving in our coffers, at the end of 1845, rather more than double that amount, or £855,000.

In the year 1832, the declared value of our exports was £384,000. Under the withering blight of this same blunder, they had, by the year 1845, dwindled up to £1,556,000, being rather more than four-fold.

The quantity of wool grown in the colony for exportation in the year 1832, was 1,500,000 lbs., valued at £76,000. By the year 1845, under the like ruinous system, it had become (in round numbers) 17,400,000 lbs., valued at £1,009,000; the quantity being more than eleven-fold, and the value more than thirteen-fold.

How far the extra labour imported in that interval had been the instrument of thus augmenting the productive energies of the country, and how far the profits of such augmentation had served to remunerate the Government and the people for [illegible] applied, are questions upon the capital so [illegible] [illegible] might do well which honorable mem[illegible] to bestow some attention.

Errata.—In our article of yesterday, on the Colonial Banks, we perceive two typographical errors. In the last line on the subject of Deposits, for "Net decrease in the quarter," read "Net increase." And in the particulars of increase in the Coin in the quarter, for "Less increase," read "Less decrease."

SUPREME COURT.—Friday.

In Equity.

Before His Honor Mr. Justice Therry.

SMITH AND OTHERS v. STIRLING AND OTHERS.

In this case His Honor directed the order for the taxation and payment of costs to be discharged, without costs.

RILEY v. RILEY.

Mr. Donelly moved, on the Master's certificate of no cause shown, upon an affidavit that the infant had attained the age of twenty-one years, to make absolute a decree nisi against the latter.

The Court ordered accordingly.

HUNTER v. O'MARA.

The argument in this case was resumed, and occupied the remainder of the day.

Nisi Prius Sittings.

Before His Honor Mr. Justice Dickinson, and a Jury of four.

M'LAUGHLIN v. DILLON.

This was an action brought by Mr. Bernard M'Laughlin against Mr John Dillon, to recover the sum of £29 10s., rent due for the use and occupation of premises, situated in York-street, Sydney.

It appeared that in the month of August, 1846, the defendant entered into an agreement with the plaintiff to take the premises in question, then occupied by him, for twelve months, at the rental of £11 per calendar month, payable monthly; that on the 28th December following, he became insolvent; that on the 6th January, at the first meeting of defendant's creditors for the proof of claims, the defendant proved for the rent then due, one month and a half; that on the 20th March, about the time of the third meeting of defendant's creditors, the official assignee of defendant's estate intimated to the plaintiff that he would not accept the lease, and a conversation afterwards took place between the parties, when the defendant said that he would settle with Mr. M'Laughlin respecting the rent of the premises, and the plaintiff desired the defendant to vacate them on or before the 27th; in a few hours, the furniture &c., was removed, and the key handed to the plaintiff. These were the grounds of action, to which the defendant had pleaded that he was never indebted; a set off for work and labour done, goods sold, money lent and paid, &c.; and further, that at the time the debt accrued, his estate was under sequestration; that Mr. Hutchinson Bell was the official assignee; and that the lease, unexpired, was surrendered, in compliance with the terms of the Insolvent law, within fourteen days after the official assignee had declined to take it.

Mr. Fisher, for the defence, contended that under these circumstances his client was not liable to pay any rent, and moved a nonsuit.

His Honor ruled otherwise, and put the case to the Jury, who returned a verdict for the plaintiff—debt, £27 10s.; damages, one shilling.

The Court then adjourned until Monday next.

Business for Monday.—M'Laughlin v. Norris; Doe dem. Hardy and others v. Rayner.

The actions in both instances were for a trespass on licensed stations, and in the first damages to the amount of £250 were obtained, and in the latter to the amount of £30.—There have only seven capital punishments taken place in Australia Felix.—The lambing season in the district of Port Phillip is proceeding satisfactorily.

Homebush Races.—We are requested to remind parties interested, that entrances for the ensuing Homebush Races will close on Monday next, the 10th instant.

"Don John of Austria."—The first Australian Opera has been received at the Victoria with decided approbation. The music is by Mr. Nathan, who is known to be no novice in these matters. The libretto by a gentleman of "acknowledged literary attainments." We refrained from giving an earlier notice of this production, as we were unwilling to form an opinion amidst the mistakes and confusion inseparable from a first performance, but we can now say that the music has won much upon us by acquaintance, which may at once be pronounced to be a test of its goodness. The plot is somewhat tame and gloomy, and wants relief; there is no counterplot, nor are there any striking dramatic effects. The character of the music is necessarily the same, and although the concerted pieces, especially a quartette and trio are very effective, we consider that most of it is much better adapted to the drawing-room than to the stage. There are several very pretty songs, which are certain to become favourites. The principal characters are sustained by Mrs. Guerin and the Messrs. Howson, who acquit themselves admirably. Mr. J. Howson's beautiful voice is brought out to great advantage. His song "I dare not say how much I love," is very pretty, and well suited to him. Mr. F. Howson has also a very nice song, into the accompaniment of which the air of "Why are you wandering" is very cleverly introduced. The orchestral accompaniments are throughout the opera very full and good, but we are convinced that the copyist must have left out several pianos and mezzofortes, especially in the horn and clarionet parts, as the voices were frequently overpowered; this, however, can be easily corrected, and will not prevent the opera of "Don John" from having a most successful run.

Adjourned Licensing Meeting.—An adjourned annual licensing meeting of the Magistrates was holden at the Police Office yesterday, at noon, when the remainder of the postponed cases were considered. Those parties whose applications have been refused, will be allowed to appeal in the open Court at eleven o'clock on Tuesday next, being the last day fixed by law for the completion of the annual licensing business. Those parties who have not already entered into their bonds, are reminded that it will be necessary they do so on or before Tuesday next.

Caution to Watermen.—A man named Johnson, a licensed waterman, appeared at the Water Police Office, yesterday, to answer a charge preferred by Captain Brigstock, of the Richard and William, for bringing his boat under the bow of the vessel, and receiving from it a bag of sugar. Mr. Nichols defended Johnson; but although there was no evidence of a felonious intention in the reception of the sugar, the attempt was considered so dangerous as to warrant the cancelling of the waterman's license.

Inquest.—An inquisition was held yesterday afternoon in Darlinghurst Gaol, on the body of Mary Lang, one of the confinees in that prison, when evidence to the following effect was adduced:—Johanna Brown, deposed that she (Brown) was in gaol under sentence; she knew the deceased; she spoke to her in the cell in the morning; she was then lying on a blanket; she did not answer witness, but moved; that which is stated above occurred about half-past eleven in the forenoon; that witness was going into the cell when she first perceived the deceased suspended by the neck, with her feet in a bucket; she was then dead; she took dinner with witness on Thursday, and was then apparently quite sane; the blanket was twisted round her neck. Mr. Henry Keck, Governor of the Goal, deposed that the deceased was received into gaol under sentence on Wednesday last; she was then quite sober; she did not exhibit the slightest symptoms of delirium tremens, nor even of despondency; she had frequently been in gaol on sundry charges; the one on which she was last lodged there was for being idle and disorderly. Several other witnesses corroborated the preceding testimony; after which, medical evidence being adduced as to the cause of death, a verdict of felo de se was recorded.

Horses, at the Cattle Market.—We are requested by Mr. Mort to remind our readers that he will sell, at the Cattle Market, this afternoon, at half past one o'clock, forty well-bred horses, just arrived from the country.—Communicated.

We are requested to state that the sale of wines, groceries, &c., by Mr. John G. Cohen, intended for yesterday's sale, will be continued this day, at his Rooms, when the remaining portion of goods advertised will be positively sold. Sale to commence at eleven o'clock precisely.—Communicated.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

WOLLONGONG RACES.

The hitherto drooping spirit of the turf has again risen, and never shone more brilliantly than on the present occasion; the course was both numerously and fashionably attended; several from Sydney having also graced it by their presence. The weather was most delightful, and the turf not in bad order, although rather heavy at one side—quite sufficient to test the speed, strength, and training of the horses, as well as to bring out the judgment and jockeyship of the racers.

First Day—May 4.

First Race.—Maiden Plate.—One mile and a half heats.

Mr. O'Reilly's g. f. Gohanna, 2 years	1	2	2
Mr. Jenkins' b. f. Niobe (Cantator) 4 years, Gilligan	2	1	1
Mr. Rowe's g. g. Wanderer	drawn.

In this race the rider of the winner rode 19 lbs over weight, and therefore was changed for a lighter, as it was quite clear that but for the over-weight she would have come in first. The contest cannot be considered as proving the powers of either, as the two-year-old was not in condition or in age equal to the winner, nor was the latter as she ought to be, although shewing high breeding and great spirit.

2nd Race.—Sweepstakes, in consequence of no entrance for the Farmers' Purse. Duke from Shoalhaven having frightened the Wollongongites out of the field.

Mr. Hyam's c. f. Kate, by Liberator, 6 yrs.	1	1
Capt. Plunkett's b. g. Dandy	2	3
Mr. Maher's g. h. Hawthorn	3	2

The filly never gave the others a chance, she went off game from the start, took the lead and held it the whole way both heats, keeping up her reputation as the best bit of stuff for her inches in the colony.

3rd—Hack Race.

Mr. Rowe's g. g., Forde	3	1	1
Mr. D. Reilly's b. m. Kitty	3	3	3
Mr. J. Seymour's b. g.	1	2	2

The grey horse bolted shortly after the start, but was well handled by Forde, who would not be beaten, and proved his own pluck and that this horse by winning in good style the two next heats; the bay gelding behaved well too, but had not the condition.

Second Day.

Wollongong Town Plate.—Two mile heats.

Dr. Mackenzie's b. g. Duke, aged	1	1
Mr. Rowe's br. g. Scratch, aged	2	dr.
Mr. D. Reilly's b. f. Deception, 4 yrs	3	dr.

The night of the entrance there was some rare chaffing, poor Duke was to be distanced, 2 to 1, 5 to 1, aye 10 to 1 was fully offered against his Grace, but no takers, and by-the-bye Deception or Velocipede would have been more appropriate to have called him; he completely threw the dust in the eyes of all the knowing ones: there was no mistake about him—it was his first appearance upon the turf, and so good has he proved himself, from his style and killing pace, that he is about to sport his figure on Homebush. Look out Old Jorrocks, your laurels are about to be snatched from you by a cock-tail.

Second Race.—The Welter, 12 stone; two mile heats.

Mr. Rowe's Scratch, Gilligan	1	1
Mr. King's Sam Slick	2	2
Dr. Mackenzie's Duke	drawn.

Sam Slick came all the way from Sydney to laugh at his poor country cousins, and having paced the Homebush turf amongst the élite of blood, nothing was to stand before him on our sod; but it would not do, Scratch polished him off in first-rate style. Sam tried it on to rush Scratch, and most unsportsmanlike made for the inside running when on Scratch's tail, and had Gilligan held his place a serious accident must have occurred, but he drew off, and thus proved his manly conduct, and won his race without punishing.

Thus ended the present Wollongong races, most satisfactorily to all, as both days' sport passed off well, without accident, every person enjoying a good cheerful holiday, but the race goers are much indebted to the Judge and Stewards for their attention to their duties, and their urbanity to all, and the public have much reason to be thankful to the Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. Alexander Elliott, as, but for his activity and unremitting zeal, it is more than probable the spirit of the turf in Wollongong would have died outright, whereas now we may say it lives in health and vigour: it lives in a green old age, ever to flourish and become brighter every year.

NEWS FROM THE INTERIOR.

(From our Correspondents.)

PARRAMATTA.

Election of District Councillors.

The polling for members to serve in the District Council took place yesterday (Friday).

The following was the result at the close, at four o'clock:—

Mr. James Pye	155
Mr. James Howison	136
Mr. G. R. Nichols	134
Mr. Hugh Taylor, senior	95

The three retiring members are consequently re-elected.

The official report of the poll will be made by the Warden to-day (Saturday), at noon. About 200 voters polled. The polling throughout the day was rather brisk, and up to two o'clock, closely contested between Messrs. Howison, Nichols, and Taylor, almost vote for vote being given; but the latter gentleman, at the hour referred to, although he had been at one time in advance of his competitors, began to lose ground. After the first hour Mr. Pye was a-head, and gained each successive one rapidly on the other candidates.

The election caused considerable bustle in the town, and a bullock was roasted in honour of the day. With the exception of some little squabbling on the part of the agents of the candidates, in guarding that an elector in filling up his voting paper did not break the promise he might have given to a canvasser, everything passed off well.

Declaration of Qualification by Candidates.—About three o'clock, Mr. Hugh Taylor asked the Warden if he would put to the candidates the Declaration of Qualification this day or to-morrow? The Warden replied, that he was of opinion, and in which he was confirmed by having taken advice on the subject, that it was in the present stage of the election too late to put this test, as it ought to have been done on the nomination day—when in fact an election was declared, the present poll being merely a scrutiny. Mr. Taylor said, as he was inclined to moot the point in the Supreme Court, he should put his request of the Warden demanding of the candidates the taking the declaration in writing. The Warden having expressed his desire Mr. Taylor would do so, Mr. T., at about ten minutes before the close of the poll, handed in a paper, which he begged might either be read or that he might be allowed to do so. At this time there was a large press of voters, and the Warden considering the request most unreasonable, and as the sole business of the day was the taking of a poll, refused to accede to it. Here the subject dropped, and it therefore remains for to-day's proceedings to show whether or no the qualification test can be demanded to be put after the day of nomination.

Sydney Visitants.—An attempt at housebreaking having been made in the course of Sunday, at the residence of a family in this town, during their absence at church, and it being ascertained by inquiries instituted by the police that three men had been seen lurking about the premises, one of whom was a well-known Sydney thief, named Taylor, suspicions which had been entertained as to the objects and nature of his and his companions' sojourn during the previous week in Parramatta, were consequently strengthened, and the trio were taken in charge. As however no evidence was procurable which could fix the attempt at burglary on them, and Taylor was known to be free, he was allowed to depart. The two other men were, however, being strangers to the police, brought before the court, when they gave their names as William Brookes and William Robertson, the former then, alleging himself to be free by servitude, produced in support of his assertion a sailor's discharge certificate, and the latter stating himself to have arrived free in the colony. Both prisoners were remanded to Sydney for identification, when Brookes was found to be a runaway, and to have been some time absent; and the other man, Robertson, was recognised as free by servitude, but upon his being brought under the notice of some of the Sydney Police, it was found that in the course of the last fifteen months he had been five or six times in custody for stealing, and that during the period he had brought himself under this police surveillance, he was not known to have been doing a day's work. This character, coupled with his lurking about the town, induced the bench to deal with him under the Vagrant Act, and he was sentenced three months' imprisonment in the gaol as a House of Correction.

WINDSOR.

The Revision Court

Considerable interest was excited in town on Wednesday last, by the sitting of this tribunal for the revision of the electoral lists for the Cumberland boroughs. The Bench was composed of Robert Fitzgerald, Esq. (who presided); L. D. Whitaker, Esq.; J. L. Seawell, Esq.; and Charles Kerr, Esq., Magistrates; and Messrs. Edmund Burke and George Rouse, Assessors.

The list of objections contained the names of thirty persons; and Mr. Lawson having risen, stated he appeared on behalf of William Moore, the objector; and then handed up the notice of objection filed with the clerk, of which he requested judicial notice would be taken.

Mr. Johnston, who appeared on behalf of some of the objectees, submitted that it was a necessary preliminary that Mr. Lawson should prove his employment by Moore, because, according to the way in which he read the Act, Mr. Lawson did not appear as attorney, as in the Petty Sessions, but as an agent authorised in the behalf of the objector.

Mr. Lawson submitted to the Court that Mr. Johnston's objection was quite unprecedented, and without any foundation. The 13th section of the Act required that the objectee should appear "by himself or some one authorised in his behalf," and did not continue "that an authority" should be proved.

The Bench decided against Mr. Johnston's objection, because in their opinion they sat there as a Court of Petty Sessions under the Summary Jurisdiction Act; and they took notice of Mr. Lawson in the same manner as usual when appearing before them as attorney for the plaintiff or defendant. To give Mr. Johnston's objection any weight, they thought it would be necessary for him to show that the Act required that an authority should be proved.

The objection No. 1, against Lyon Abrahams, was then proceeded with, and so on ad finem.

The case of John Rafter, who was objected to for a freehold in Baker-street, Windsor, exceeded the other cases in interest; indeed, the most of the objectees did not appear. Mr. Lawson, as attorney for William Moore (the nominal objector), appeared to oppose the retention of John Rafter's name on the electoral list. Mr. Richard Sherriff proved the service of a true copy of the notice on Rafter; but on copies being compared, on the cross-examination of Mr. Johnston, attorney for Rafter, it appeared that the notice served on the latter so far disagreed from the original, that instead of the word "retained," that of "returned" had been written. Mr. Johnston, therefore, contended that the notice was illegal. Mr. Lawson, on the other hand maintained, and the Magistrates accordingly decided, that the mis-spelling was a mere clerical error, and of no consequence; besides the Act merely required that a notice of objection should be made according to certain form, "or to the like effect." Mr. Rafter was then sworn, and proved that he had bought his premises from Mr. John Panton for £240, in 1844, that they were not encumbered. The annual rental amounted to about £28. Other evidence was called on the part of Rafter, which corroborated his evidence, and clearly proved his right to claim. Rafter's case here closed.

Mr. Lawson here rose and contended, that in his opinion, if Rafter had closed his case, it had entirely failed; for without a doubt he had only afforded partial evidence, and given that without which it was impossible he could be entitled to hold his vote. Not only did the Act require that proof of the value of the property should be adduced, but also that the objectee or claimant should prove himself of the full age of twenty one years—that he was not a foreigner, and that he was a free subject of Her Majesty the Queen. Now in these three main particulars of evidence Rafter's case had completely failed. Mr. Lawson then called Mr. Laban White, who was of opinion that Rafter's premises might be worth £200, while they remained attached to the public-house in the front street, which gave the back premises a false value. But he thought that were the back premises severed from the front public-house, they would not be worth, at least he would not give for them, £100.

Rafter on the request of the Magistrates was recalled to the witness box, and swore himself to be of the age of twenty-one years and upwards, a free subject of Her Majesty the Queen, and an Irishman.

The name of Rafter, it was then decided, should remain on the list for a freehold in Baker-street, Windsor.

PENRITH.

Great Western or Bathurst Road.

Pursuant to notice, a meeting was held at the Court House, Penrith, on Wednesday last, for the purpose of considering the state of a great portion of the Great Western or Bathurst Road, in the district of Penrith, and of determining the adoption of measures for putting and maintaining the same in an efficient state of repair.

R. C. Lethbridge, Esq. J.P., was called to the chair, when he opened the proceedings by reading the requisition which called them together. In rising to address the meeting, that gentleman observed, that it was with some surprise he saw the meeting not more numerously attended, considering the very great importance to the community of the question that they had that day met to discuss; he might say, without fear of contradictions, that the interest not only of the inhabitants of this district were deeply involved, but it also affected the well-being of many thousands of our fellow-colonists whose homes were in the Far West. In fact, the great commercial and pastoral interests of the colony were materially concerned. The immense traffic on this line of road at all seasons of the year, was a matter of such notoriety that it required no comment. He trusted that the apathy which too frequently characterised meetings of this nature, would be aroused to active exertion, and he looked to those around him, who had evinced so lively an interest in the matter by their attendance here this day, that they would zealously co-operate in the accomplishment of an object of such vital importance to the community generally. Without further preface he would proceed to the business before them, and would call upon

Mr. Charles Sims to move the first resolution: That gentleman adverted to the bad and unsafe state of the road in question, occasioned by the ceaseless traffic carried on in the transit of wool, and the return of supplies to the western districts, alluded to the difficulties to be encountered by teams, and the dangers which passengers were subjected to by the evils complained of, and then moved, "That it having been represented to this meeting that the Western or Bathurst Road, passing through the county of Cook, in the police district of Penrith, particularly that section of it extending from Lapstone Hill upwards, presents so many serious obstructions to teams and other vehicles that travelling has become positively dangerous and unsafe. Under such circumstances, this meeting feels imperatively called upon to adopt such means as will effect the necessary repairs, not only on that particular portion of the road, but upon the whole line within the limits of the district, with the least possible delay."

Seconded by Mr. Major Lowe, and carried nem. con.

Mr. John Perry was then called upon to move the second resolution, but previous to doing so, he addressed the meeting to the following effect:—Mr. Chairman and gentlemen: Being one of the persons who signed the requisition, requesting you to call a public meeting, to adopt measures for putting the public highway into the western interior (passing through this district) into repair, it may be expected I should say something on the subject, but as I am no orator, I must entreat your indulgence while I endeavour to give expression to my sentiments on this occasion: it is useless to particularise to you the bad state of our roads, of which you are, no doubt, perfectly aware, and there is no question, gentlemen, that you, in common with all of us, have experienced the evils resulting therefrom. It is not my present purpose to enumerate the difficulties I have had, and still have to contend with, through the bad state of the road, particularly at Lapstone-hill and that vicinity, which at this time is in a dreadful condition. I would also call your attention to the state of the road and bridge near Dean's; indeed the whole line of road in this district is bad, and in rainy weather is almost impassable. Now, gentlemen, it is come to this, how are they to be repaired? The solution of that problem, I believe, is contained in the adoption of the resolution I now hold in my hand, for I am well aware that the Government is as willing to give as we are to ask, if applied for through a proper channel; and to show you, gentlemen, that we have some claim upon the consideration of the Government, I assert without fear of contradiction, that a sum exceeding £1800 has been received for rent of the punt at Emu Ferry, during the last three years, not one farthing of which has been expended upon the roads in this quarter; it is true that there has been and now is some slight repairs doing to our roads and bridges, but the shameful and negligent manner they have been performed in, calls loudly for your reprobation. Gentlemen, you must be perfectly aware how money may be sacrificed by injudicious management, when placed in improper hands. I would ask you, gentlemen, in whom the appropriation of the public money for the repair of the roads ought to be vested? I fearlessly reply, that the only proper and legitimate source is in the persons living upon, or adjacent to, the public thoroughfares, whose interest it is not only to see the work done, but well done; misapplied as the money has been in its expenditure upon the road, the whole amount does not exceed one-fourth of the money which the Government has received for the rent of the toll on the Western Road, which is placed there for that purpose. After these few observations, I beg to move the second resolution, viz.:—"That this meeting, being aware that the last session of the Legislative Council voted a sum of money for repairing the public roads throughout the colony; but not being aware in what manner, or through what channel, such was to be appropriated, it is therefore moved that a Committee of nine members be appointed by this meeting, who should forthwith put themselves in communication with the Government, and request that the sum set apart for the repair of the public roads in this district, in accordance with the said vote, may be placed at their disposal, and be applied to putting the line of the Western or Bathurst Road, within this district, in a state of repair."

Seconded by Mr. James M'Carthy, Jun., and carried nem. con.

The third resolution was moved by Mr. James Ryan—"That the following gentlemen do form the Committee, five whereof shall form a quorum, with power to fill up any vacancies which may occur in the number, viz.—Messrs. R. C. Lethbridge, J.P., Chairman; Henry Cox, J.P., Charles Sims, John Perry, Patrick Glissan, James M'Carthy, Jun., James Landers, Charles York, and Major Lowe.

Seconded by Mr. Thomas Hadley, and carried nem. con.

The Committee at once addressed the Government on the subject, and after the business of the meeting was disposed of, a petition was submitted for approval, and signed by all those present.

MUSWELLBROOK.

The Reverend Mr. Irving Hetherington, Presbyterian Minister of Singleton and Muswellbrook, preached his farewell sermon on Sunday, the 18th instant, at this place. Having accepted a call to Melbourne, his ministry ceases in these districts. Mr. Hetherington was much affected during the service, as well as many of his hearers, by whom he is highly esteemed. On the Monday following a deputation, appointed for the purpose, met him in the church, and presented him with an address, signed by the members of the congregation, of which the following is a copy:—

Reverend Sir,—We, the undersigned members of the Scots Church in this place, in taking leave of you cannot allow you to depart from amongst us without expressing our sincere regret, that circumstances have obliged you to labour in another field. We, however, feel called upon on this your leave taking, to express our warmest approbation of your ministry and deportment towards us. Rest assured, Sir, that your zeal to serve us, the long distance you have travelled—once every fortnight sixty miles, and often on foot—to preach to us, and administer to our spiritual necessities, shall never be forgotten.

Sir, we trust and pray, that wherever you may dwell, peace and happiness may ever remain with you and your family.

We beg to present you with this contribution as a tribute of our lasting esteem. You are aware, Sir, that as a community we are few in number, and that we have had short notice of your leave-taking; but we trust, small as it is, it will be acceptable to you, not for its intrinsic value, but as a token of our good-will.

Here follow the signatures.

Mr. Hetherington replied verbally to the address in nearly the following words:—My dear friends,—I thank you for this manifestation of your regard. Believe me I am grateful for it, for the assurance you have given me that my poor endeavours to promote your best interests has been acceptable to you. That assurance I have long enjoyed, and light and pleasant has it rendered the labours you so kindly allude to. But now that we are parting it is especially welcome, affording me another ground of hope, in looking back to the ministry which in much weakness I have fulfilled with you and your families, that it has not been in vain. May God ever have you in his fatherly keeping; may he multiply his mercies towards you; may he make you daily to increase in all that is pleasing in his sight. The Providence which has brought our connexion to a close, removes me to a great distance from you, but I trust to hear from my successor of your welfare, and ere long personally to witness it. I bid you again farewell, praying that every blessing may rest and abide with you.

(From the London Mail, December 24.)

Parliament was to meet on the 19th January, and many conjectures are made as to who are to form the opposition, and who is to be their leader. The opinions of Sir R. Peel not being at direct variance with the Ministry, Lord George Bentinck was spoken of.

At a sixth annual meeting of the proprietors of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company, the report of the directors was read, which was highly satisfactory. A dividend of 4½ was voted for the half-year ending 30th September, making with 3½ for the previous half-year, 8 per cent. per annum. The profits had exceeded those of last year by £19,000, and £22,000 out of the half-year's trading receipts was to be appropriated to the insurance fund, which would amount then to £186,000, and was to be allowed to accumulate to £200,000. It was decided to reduce the rate of first class passage from Calcutta to Southampton from the 1st March, 1847, in the following proportion:—

To be reduced to	115	0	0
Total amount of passage from 1st March	£127	0	0

The Directors announce that they were about to extend their present communication with China direct from Bombay, and that they were in treaty for the "Mazagon Docks," and adjoining premises at Bombay, so as to be able to give adequate dock accommodation. The report then alludes to a steam communication in these seas, as follows:—"It appears evident to the Directors that there is an anxious and increasing desire in the public mind to procure, through the instrumentality of this company, a further extension of the benefits of steam navigation especially in the Eastern Seas, and ere long it will become necessary for four Directors to adopt a decided course of policy upon this question. The connexion of Calcutta with the line to China, joining at Singapore, and also the extension from Hongkong to the northern port of Sanghae, has been, as already intimated to the proprietors, strongly urged upon the Directors, and there is no question but that such additional branch lines would materially benefit the existing operations of this company, by securing an increased intercourse and traffic to the main lines. The Directors desire to proceed deliberately and prudently in any additional extensions; but they feel that it will be decidedly for the permanent interest of this company to place itself in such a position that if the extension alluded to, as well as that embracing the Australian colonies, be determined upon by Her Majesty's Government, the company may be enabled to show that they possess sufficient capital wherewith to carry out such operations." The Company were felicitated in having received from the Pacha of Egypt and his Government every assurance of good faith by the constant desire evinced by that prince to extend and improve the means of transit through Egypt, and diminish the charge. Two new steam ships had been contracted for to be built in London, of 1100 tons, and 420 horse power each, and one at Glasgow of 100 and 400 horse power, to maintain the efficiency of the establishment. New and extensive offices were to be erected in Leadenhall-street.

From the South and West of Ireland the accounts continued to be deplorable, and the Northern districts had also taken the alarm. The following description of the state of destitution in one part (Monaghan, in Ulster) will serve for many others.

"In every street, at every corner, lean and cadaverous beings meet your eye—famine in the face, want in the hollow glance—emaciation in the wasted frame, and yet they do not die. The able-bodied labourer is no longer so, he is haggard and famine-worn. There is no power of giving charity amongst those who gave ninety per cent. of the alms of the country—the farmers: they are selling hoarded oats at 1s. 6d. per stone, to buy meal; the horses are starved, and the family, like a vessel in a calm, on half-allowance. The poor houses are filling with a frightful rapidity—Clones house is 133 above its complement. The Monaghan house is within 200 of its number, and before Christmas, will be full. Castle Blaney is in the same situation. Cootehill house is full; and all this at a season which used to be called Merry Christmas."

But this is not all—murders are committed, of the most daring and atrocious character. A Mr. Lloyd was shot while standing at his door in the street of Parsonstown, in King's county. He was the owner of a small property at Ballough, Tipperary. His tenants were known to be very refractory, and he had been often obliged to resort to law to obtain his rent. Mr. J. B. Lynch, of Clonkeely, near Tuam, was assailed in his own avenue as he was returning from a fair; first fired on and wounded, and afterwards his body was slashed with a reap hook to complete the murder. One Mr. M'Glean, a Protestant, a man of excellent character, and respected by all parties, was waylaid and murdered.

The peasantry were arming, notwithstanding the circular lately addressed to the magistrates by Mr. Labouchere, the Secretary for Ireland. At a fair, considerable number of arms were sold by auction.

Differences still exist between O'Connell and the Young Ireland party.

All the attention of the Ministry is directed to this unfortunate country, and measures of a decisive character are to be speedily adopted.

The Daily News announces that a great comprehensive measure of redemption is resolved upon, and is to be promulgated by Ministers in Parliament. It is to be hoped that there is no error either as to the comprehensiveness or the boldness of the measure; but if there is not, Lord John Russell and his colleagues have resolved to attempt one of the greatest tasks ever undertaken by a Ministry, with a truly "wise hardihood."

We select the heads of the measure, compressing the text.

The chief law at present in operation, for employment, improvement, and drainage in Ireland, is to be continued; but to be amended and made more efficient.

The action of the poor-house will be put forward as a check to fling back the loiterer, who could find employment elsewhere, from burdening relief funds; but the Warden of the Poor, (equivalent to the English overseer), will be empowered to give relief in all cases to the infirm and really destitute.

Emigration will be provided. Not only will depots be formed at home, but active and beneficent preparations will be formed in the colonies, so as to insure those who wish to emigrate all the risks of the poor, unprovided, and ignorant emigrant.

The peculiarity, however, of the present plan of emigration is, that it will be coupled with a choice of settlement at home.

A commission will be issued for the purchase of waste lands; which are to be enclosed, cultivated, and offered in no large lots for sale, with such facilities as will render them a premium for industry and frugality, and the foundation of a class of Irish yeomen.

There are other lands not waste that are but half cultivated, and which in the hands of the poor, encumbered, embarrassed landlord, are as profitless to the community as the bog or the heath. To render these more available, liberty will be given to sell entailed property.

Government will be empowered to proceed to the sale of a portion of these estates indebted to Government, which have not paid up the interest or instalment agreed upon.

Considerable apprehension is entertained as to the two vessels Erebus and Terror, that sailed on a polar expedition in June, 1845, under the command of Sir J. Franklin, no tidings having been received from them since December of the last year.

No less than 460 plans for getting off the Great Britain had been filed in the offices of the Great Western Steam-ship Company.

The conditions upon which the Board of Controul and the Directors of the East India Company have decided to give their sanction to the introduction of railway communication are as follows:—

1. The Direct Trunk or East India line is adopted.
2. This line (which connects Calcutta with the North West provinces) is to be constructed in sections.
3. The Government guarantee 4 per cent. to the shareholders.
4. The amount guaranteed is fixed at £3,000,000 to commence with.
5. The section of Calcutta to be first executed.
6. The guarantee to stand over 15 years.
7. The rates of payment to be made by the Government for transport of mails, troops, stores, &c., to be agreed upon hereafter.
8. The interest to be paid either in India or London, at the option of the shareholders, as soon as £50,000 is paid into the India House.
9. The land to be obtained by the Government for the Railway Company.
10. Government to have the privilege of purchasing the railway after thirty years from the date of its completion, at the then fair market value of the property.
11. No limitation is to be fixed to the profits of the Company, but the rates of charges are to be reduced when the returns admit of it.
12. It is also understood that no rates or tolls will be assessed upon the Railway Company, and that the import duties on the stock and materials for the railway will be remitted.
13. The Company to be incorporated by an Act of the Legislative Council as well as by Charter.

Dwarkanath Bose, a native of India, had passed the College of Surgeons in England with great credit, after remaining nearly two years in attendance upon the lectures and hospital of University College. Several other gentlemen, natives of India, were studying medicine in England, and were waiting to obtain the degree of Doctor in Medicine, which Dwarkanath Bose did not desire to possess.

France.—Rumours prevailed that a change of ministry was probable. The King and Queen of the Belgians were in Paris, from whence they intended to proceed to England with the intention it is reported of acting as mediators between the two governments, and heal the sores on both sides. A new Congress was spoken of by some of the continental journals.

The Mail contains the whole protest of the French Minister against the dismemberment of Cracow, which, says the protest, cause great and painful surprise. The act of the Three Powers "weakens throughout all Europe on this painful question, the principles of order and conservation to the profit of blind and hateful passions." On article 9 of the treaty of Vienna, which imposes on Cracow to remove conspirators from its territory, the protest maintains that other means should have been adopted to attain this object. We quote now from the protest:—"The narrow limits of the Republic, the immense strength of the three great powers, by whose states it is hemmed in, all tend to induce, the belief that measures carefully combined would have been sufficient to counteract efficaciously the evil, without having recourse to extreme means, which involve some perils in the prospect of frequently creating fresh and more serious evils. It was in all cases the incontestible right of all the powers who were parties to the treaty of Vienna to take part in the deliberations and decisions of which Cracow might be the object. If Prince Metternich means in his despatch that the three courts had by themselves created the small state of Cracow, and that they afterwards presented to the Congress for enrolment the convention they had passed between themselves, the King's government could never admit an assertion so contrary to the principles, and even to the language, of great transactions constituting the public law of Europe. * * The government of his Majesty, therefore, has used only an evident right, and at the same time fulfilled an imperative duty, in protesting solemnly against the suppression of the Republic of Cracow—an act positively against the letter as well as the meaning of the treaties of Vienna.

"After the long and redoubtable agitations which have shaken Europe, it is only by paying respect to treaties, and those rights which they have made sacred, that she maintains herself. No power can entranchise itself from them without enfranchising the other powers by the same act. France has not forgotten the painful sacrifices imposed upon her by the treaties of 1815. She might rejoice at an act which would authorise her in just reciprocity to consult henceforth none but her own interest, and it is she who calls for the faithful observance of treaties by the powers who have derived from them the principal advantage. It is she, who above all, is occupied in the maintenance of the rights acquired by others, and in respecting their independence." Guizot.

In America much anxiety prevailed as to the tendency of the President's message to Congress, which was to meet shortly. The most strenuous exertions were making to muster and equip the nine new regiments recently ordered, which are to be attached to General Scott's army, who is to commence operations on Vera Cruz. In the mean time Santa-Anna is not idle; he has collected a large army at San Louis Polici, in a position to intercept General Taylor's march to form a junction with reinforcements from Tampico. There were indications of disunion in the Mexican cabinet, but according to Vera-Cruz papers Santa Anna have been solicited to assume the Presidency, which he declined.

Commodore Perry had been successful in capturing the town of Tabarco.

Accounts from California, via Mazatlan, reported that the occupation of the territory was not peaceful—that insurrections had occurred at several points, and that the French consul at the seaport of Monterey had been arrested for having protested against the American usurpations. An attempt of the boats of the United States sloop of war Cyane to seize a Mexican brig had been repelled.

The results of the revolution in Portugal were still undecided. The Royalist and Insurrectionary Generals are more ready with declamation than with deeds; and, saving some paltry advantages on either side, nothing has occurred influencing the fate of the nation.

Samples of sugar, cotton, and wool, of excellent quality, grown in the Sandwich islands, have been forwarded to Liverpool.

Commerce.—There has decidedly been more general business transacted during the last fortnight than is usual on the eve of the Christmas holidays; and this activity may in part be ascribed to the pressing necessity of providing supplies of corn and bread stuffs for Ireland:—to the large continental demand for these commodities, especially from France, where the navigation laws have been suspended to admit grain and flour in foreign vessels—to the great movement in the cotton trade; and in part to the continuously large domestic consumptive demand, as proved by the deliveries of the prime articles of tropical production—sugar, tea, and coffee. But notwithstanding this flush of business, and the continued business of the money market, there has been a rather feverish feeling, lest the exchanges, which have continued to droop, may sink so low that a large efflux of bullion would ensue—the diminished stock of coin in the Bank of France, and the high rates of interest in many of the continental cities, influence this opinion—up to the present date the export of the precious metals has not exceeded half a million sterling, the greater part of which has recently been dispatched (in gold) to the United States; however it should not be forgotten that now-a-days there exist representatives of values, such as railway stock, &c., which serve as media of remittance, and are made to act as levers of exchange, whereas in former times the exchanges could only be adjusted by the transmission of bullion, pending the slower progress of the "returns for industry," so that it does not now necessarily follow that an immediate disturbance of our monetary affairs must ensue upon every financial crisis on the Continent—at present too, nearly every branch of British trade is in full and profitable activity; and although that important section of it that embraces cotton is for the moment ruffled, yet it must be remembered that unlike any former periods of embarrassment, that trade now has the accumulated profits of three more prosperous years to rest on, and holding comparatively little or no stock either of the manufactured commodities or of the raw material, a large amount of that capital is employed, as is testified by the paucity of Lancashire bills in the London money market. The close of this year contrasts not unfavourably with that of 1845, when a political and monetary crisis, and doubt and mistrust for the future, were the prevailing feelings; it will be satisfactory if the ensuing year leaves as good a result as this which is terminating.

OPENED THIS DAY, THE FAMILY GROCERY AND PROVISION WAREHOUSE,

394, George-street,
Second door south of the Royal Hotel.

ALFRED FAIRFAX,

HAVING taken those old established and central premises, lately occupied by Mr. Avery Benham, takes the earliest opportunity of informing his friends and the public that he has completed such arrangements for carrying on the Grocery business as enables him with confidence to appeal to them for patronage and support.

A. F. feels peculiar satisfaction in stating that the favourable state of the markets at the present time, has afforded him an opportunity of laying in the whole of his stock on terms which will enable him to compete with any house in the trade; and he feels assured that while the lovers of economy will be gratified by his scale of charges, they will not the less approve of his selection of goods, which from their genuine qualities, must meet the approbation of the consumer.

A GOOD ARTICLE AND CHEAP,

is the principle that A. F. will adopt in commencing business, and the arrangements he has made for a continual supply by future importations, justify him in the hope of securing permanently, that encouragement which he flatters himself the extent and excellence of his present stock will command.

TO HEADS OF FAMILIES.

A. F., aware of the domestic comfort arising from the enjoyment of a really good article, will never risk his reputation by offering spurious or inferior goods for sale; and he trusts that this determination, aided by unremitting attention and civility, will secure to him a large share of the favours of this important class of the community.

TO CAPTAINS OF VESSELS

visiting the Port of Sydney, he appeals with great confidence, for fully aware of the value of their patronage, he has studiously arranged for the provision of every description of supplies, of the best quality and with the utmost promptitude.

SETTLERS AND COUNTRY STOREKEEPERS

will, he feels assured, find it to their advantage to give the above Warehouse a trial, and promises to give the strictest attention to all orders he may be favoured with, and to personally superintend the packing and despatch of the same.

During the disasters of the last few years, the importation of many articles of consumption has materially decreased, a circumstance which has led to increased care and attention in the manufacture of colonial produce, by the wiser and more experienced settlers; and A. F. has the satisfaction of stating, that the arrangements he has matured for his supplies of every description of Dairy Produce, will enable him to offer to his customers the very best article the colony affords; he has turned particular attention to this department, under the conviction that an improvement in this respect is a desideratum in the household economy of the Citizens of Sydney. 7390

THIS Estate is bounded on the north and west, about three miles and a half, by that splendid River, Boroowa; on the east by Government land; and on the south by the Boroowa Plains.

The estate has been surveyed and divided into sixteen farms, and a township laid out of 144 acres, consisting of twelve sections, and subdivided into 110 allotments, with streets one chain wide.

The present improvements are on building leases, and will expire in March and September, 1851.

The first farm is forty-three acres, on the north-east corner, with river frontage, on which is erected a large and commodious inn, with every out-building requisite; well known for many years as Walton's Inn. There is also a general store and a neat verandah cottage, with a good garden securely fenced, formerly the residence of C. B. Harrison, Esq., and now let for the remainder of the lease to Mr. John Walton, at £130 per annum; ground rent during the lease, £24 15s. This is the main crossing place to the Murrumbidgee, Bland Plains, Lachlan, sundry stations, and only thirty miles from Yass.

Second Farm—Thirty acres, river frontage on which is erected a good substantial stone building, and formerly let as an inn at £100 per annum; present rent £40; ground rent during the lease £30. There is also one small farm at £10, and one at £5 per annum. Thus, the present ground rent for 103 acres amounts to £69 15s. per annum; and at the expiration of the leases, in 1851, the rent will be £175 15s., leaving 1817 acres for further letting, or for a station, having large tracts of Government land on every side.

Terms—£500 may remain on mortgage at 8 per cent.

For further particulars apply to James Hassall, Esq., Freshfield, Camden; or to Mr. Stubbs, auctioneer, Sydney;—all letters post-paid. No offer can be entertained after the 15th May, 1847. 6347
